

To Those In Consideration:

AAF Flanders is the world's largest manufacturer of air filtration solutions, and operates production, warehousing, and distribution facilities in 22 countries across four continents. The company was formed in April 2016, when American Air Filter Co. Inc., doing business as AAF International, acquired Flanders Corp., now a wholly owned subsidiary.

As Sr. Controller of Manufacturing Operations, Logistics and Finance Integration at AAF, International, my immediate goal following the acquisition of Flanders was to reduce operational costs and implement efficiency.

With the newly acquired facilities in various markets we wanted to engage a knowledgeable consultant with broad expertise to assist us. We enlisted the services of Bill Kurtzner, and Util Auditors, who were able to quickly assess and make high-level recommendations which could create cost savings, and efficiency, at not just one, but many of our plant locations.

Not only did they make recommendations, but they provided the paperwork and guidance to assist us through implementation, so that we could begin realizing the benefits of their findings more quickly.

We intend to continue our efforts with their team following successful audits of energy, waste removal and water/sewer. I would recommend their team of cost reduction consultant for any organization considering this type of service.

Kind Regards
